VOL. LVII NO. 21

Beacon Banquet Will be Held; Officials, Officers In Accord

The banquet for members of The Beacon staff scheduled for this Sunday evening will take place as originally planned, according to a decision reached at a meeting on Friday of URI officials and officers of the Student Senate and the newspaper.

Attending the meeting were Dr. Francis H. Horn, URI president;

John F. Quinn, dean of men; Lester Walton, chief accountant for the university; Stephen Rosenberg and William Lacey, president and treasurer of the Student Senate, respectively, and Marianne Monari and John Gauthier, editor-in-chief and managing editor of The Beacon, respectively.

After a careful consideration of the background and reasons for the conflict which arose between the Student Senate and The Beacon, the following points were agreed upon:

- The Beacon banquet scheduled sometime ago will take place on the date indicated in the original plan.

- The cost of underwriting the banquet expenses will not come from any student or student-related funds, including gate receipts or advertising income.

Dean Quinn proposed that he would find a means of defraying the cost of the banquet without using student money. No decision has been reached as yet on how this will be done.

- A student-faculty committee has been working since September on the whole question of student money expenditures. A detailed report of the committee is due in Dr. Horn's office on Monday.

This committee, under the chairmanship of Prof. Ernest Goodwin, assistant to the dean of engineering, is investigating all aspects of the allocation of student funds. The report to be presented to the President will be a compilation of the committee's recommendations on the issue.

The report will be reviewed by Dr. Horn and then presented to the Student Senate for approval.

- The actions indicated above, agreed to by all parties at the meeting, were taken in the interest of maintaining over-all student co-operation and good will in this controversial area.

Hillel Presents Blender Talk

Mort Blender, news director for Providence television station WPRO, will present color-sound movies and slides of the Eichmann trial to provide: "A Second Look at the Eichmann Trial and a Panoramic View of Israel" tomorrow night at 7:30 in Quinn Auditorium. The program is sponsored by the Hillel Counselorship.

Greek Week Activities Set; Sigma Chi Wins First Event

Sigma Chi won first place in the Inter-house Sing held last Sunday by the Interfraternity Council and the Panhellenic Association in Edwards Hall as part of URI Greek Week activities.

Sigma Chi sang "Let us Break Bread Together on Our Knees" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Theta Chi won second place and Phi Kappa Theta received honorable mention.

Beverly Kelm of the combined singing group from Eleanor Roosevelt and Tucker Halls and Paul Mancini of Sigma Pi's group, were named outstanding directors.

Other activities scheduled for Greek Week include a coffee hour tomorrow afternoon at 4 in the Union lounge at which a Greek Week Goddess will be selected by student vote. Persons attending must present their I.D.'s to vote. Selection will be made on originality of costume, traditionally a Greek toga. The goddess will reign over activities slated for Friday and Saturday.

The relay will feature a chug-a-lug contest, a girls' tandem hopping race to the front of Quinn Hall, a boys' grasshopper race to the Quadrangle cannon, a mixed back-to-back race to the flagpole, a men's bicycle race to Independence Hall and a mixed Paul Revere race to the Union terrace.

A game in which a coel crawls backwards on all fours to Lippitt Hall and a men's race to Keaney gym will be part of the relay.

On the Union terrace following the afternoon's activities trophies will be awarded to the winner of the chariot race and to each fraternity and sorority which finishes first and second in total point accumulation for the games.

The teams will be made up of sororities and fraternities on campus with each sorority splitting up to participate with two fraternities.

Lack of Prior Planning

As far back as the present student body can remember, the university has been under a constant construction program. At the same time, these construction projects have required students to sacrifice convenience and campus beauty for the cause of progress.

However, we feel that the students have been subjected to more inconvenience than necessary.

Construction workers have been careless in leaving materials and equipment on the upper section of the pathway leading to Keaney Gym. Through improper drainage, rainy weather turns the lower end of the path into a mire of mud.

Landscaping done north of Browning Hall has yet to remain undisturbed. It has been dug up three times since the building was completed less than six months ago.

Spring Road, the newest road on campus, is presently being dug up for a drainage system. It seems to us that with a little foresight this could have been installed when the road was built.

The university spent a large sum of money last year to resurface the tennis courts adjacent to Eleanor Roosevelt Hall.

This year the courts have been dug up again.

We feel these cases point to a lack of prior planning on the part of state and university planners. In essence, the taxpayer is not getting his money's worth.

More construction, and mud.

Future development of the campus by sections might provide a solution which would eliminate overlapping and haphazard construction.

Two Different Views On Banquet

I read with interest your lead story last week on the Student Senate banquet resolution. Congratulations on the manner in which the story and the related editorial were handled.

The Senate is in error when it says no Beacon banquets have ever been held.

In 1958 when I was a reporter on The Beacon staff, we observed the paper's 50th anniversary with a banquet at the Larchwood Inn. Among those present were President Emeritus Carl Woodward, Dr. Francis H. Horn, who assumed the presidency that June, and Prof. Robert W. McCreanor.

Thomas Wright, '58, was editor at that time.

Robert C. Di Iorio, '58
Westerly, R. I.

Although this letter is being written after an agreeable solution to The Beacon-Senate controversy concerning banquets has been reached, I would like to take this opportunity to point out certain flaws in The Beacon's presentation of the situation.

In what is supposed to be a "straight-news" story, it is interesting to note that the actual motion made on the Senate floor is never quoted. The motion read: "The Beacon shall not have a banquet using student monies." There is no mention on the motion of "student tax organizations" or the "Student Tax Committee."

The motion is not aimed at The Beacon because the Senate wishes to hinder it, as was thought in the case. Unfortunately, The Beacon in making its decision to have a banquet left itself open to criticism.

Members of the Editorial Board can be assured that similar action would have been taken toward any other organization in the same predicament. Certainly this was an honest effort on the part of student government to remedy a difficult situation.

The statement made in the editorial that I "passed on the arrangements made for the dinner" implies a formal vote on the matter and is not true. As a matter of fact, attending my first Beacon Board meeting on March 11, I was told where and when the banquet was being held and was invited. My reply was that I would attend only if I could pay my share; and I suggested that the entire banquet be on a subscription basis.

In questioning the jurisdiction of the Senate, The Beacon is, sadly, "deciding an issue its members know nothing about." Besides, Article I, Section A of our Constitution, which states: "The Student Senate shall have the legislative and executive power to regulate all student activities which involve the student body, and for which provision is not made by the charter, by-laws, or regulations of the university," we are also basing our jurisdiction on the original Beacon Referendum of 1952, which states: "Yes, I do approve of the 75 cent student tax per semester for The Beacon with the stipulation that Beacon submit its budget to the Senate each year." This referendum was voted on by a total of 905 students and was approved by a vote of 524 to 381.

To my knowledge, The Beacon has not submitted a budget to the Senate in recent years. Due to the fact that this one half of the ruling (we still pay $1.50 per year for the Beacon) has not been enforced, Dr. Horn has classified this referendum as a "dead issue." I claim that this issue is certainly alive and most pertinent at the present time. In the final analysis, this whole problem is one of complexity and has far-reaching implications. It is my sincere wish that the Student Senate with the help of the Student-Faculty Tax Committee and the administration will soon be able to rid our university of this perennial problem.

Student Senate President

Sit-Ins Defended

I do not know whether Names Withheld (last week) were present at the coffee hour last Wednesday where the rationale for sit-in demonstrations was presented and their validity was open to question. I therefore wish this opportunity to explain our reasons for going to Maryland.

We went there at the invitation of fellow students from the South, who participated in the demonstration with us: the Civic Interest Group (CIG) centered in Baltimore, which draws its membership from Morgan State College (Negro), John Hopkins University and local high schools.

The appeal from fellow students who are being denied their basic rights as individuals is sufficient reason to inquire into means which may aid them, and this was the reason why a select number of students already active in civil rights went down to Maryland. Our prime purpose was to assure ourselves as to the validity of the demonstrations.

The most recent sit-ins in Maryland have been called and directed by CIG and began in November 1961. Other groups have also been active before and at the present time.

In mid-December two public accommodation bills were formulated for presentation to the state legislature, the weaker of which was backed by Governor Tawes.

Out of the seven counties sat in since November by CIG, six have formed local groups to maintain that which has been achieved and to further the work of desegregation and integration.

I have record of only one town in which the sit-ins did not result in the opening of at least some places of public accommodation.

The public accommodation bill brought before the legislature for action on Friday, Feb. 9, was defeated by the narrow margin of two votes.

The validity or correctness of our actions are of course open to debate, but should the challenge be made it will have to be directed at the philosophy of non-violence espoused by Gandhi, and Thoreau's "Essay on Civil Disobedience," for here we get the method for their execution. At no time in Maryland are the laws of that state broken.

I suggest that the measure of the results of these demonstrations should be whether more Americans enjoy more freedom during their waking hours, rather than the speculative assertion of heightened levels of insomnia of the inhabitants of Glen Burnie.

A further point of clarification is necessary regarding CIG and the Rhode Island Student Movement. The main efforts by these organizations in their own states are not directed toward these demonstrations, but toward programs which are in the process of formulation or execution in the areas of voter registration, tutorial programs designed to enable students to achieve college entrance, the elimination of discrimination on our campuses, summer recreation programs for members of urban area environments and equal opportunities in housing.

Richard French
Chairman, RISM

Md. Freedom Ride Set For Saturday

Thirty-five students from URI will be among the 100 students from other Rhode Island colleges who will participate in a freedom ride to Maryland this weekend. One hundred students from Massachusetts and 70 from Connecticut will also be among the group which will take part in sit-in demonstrations under the direction of the Northern Student Movement.

A bus will be leaving the Memorial Union at 4 a.m. Saturday and will return Sunday at about 5 p.m. The trip will cost $6 per person for transportation. Interested students may sign up at the Union desk tonight. Any women students who are participating must secure parental permission.

All students participating will be required to attend a briefing session on the technique of non-violence demonstrating to be held in the Union tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

SDA Coffee Hour On Fallout Shelters

The Students for Democratic Action will sponsor a coffee hour Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the Memorial Union lounge.

A discussion on "Fallout Shelters" between Dean Nelson Marshall, chairman of the Kingston Community Program for Peace, and Dr. Eugene C. Wlaslow, a member of the state council of defense, will be held.

The coffee hour is open to the whole campus.

Burma Said To Lean West

Dr. U. Aung Thein, co-director of the Southeast Asia Center in Brussels, said at last Thursday's convocation the new military government of Burma leans more to the West than the former regime of Premier U Nu.

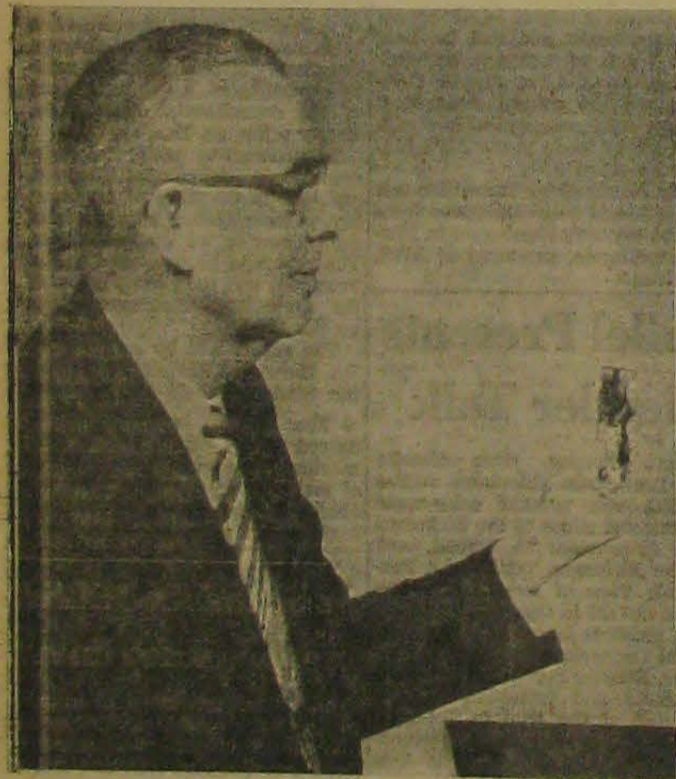

At the same time, however, he described Burma as following a "middle of the road" policy between Red China and the West.

Burma is remaining neutral, Dr. Thein said, because of the many problems which face the country, such as international security, economic development, education and health.

In a peaceful revolution on March 2, a military coup led by Gen. Ne Win deposed Premier U Nu's regime. Dr. Thein said one of the primary causes of the revolt was the government's plan to nationalize Burma's private import trade.

Dr. Thein said the new government wishes to keep Burma's trade and economy free.

Since it took over, the junta has instituted several reforms such as requiring all foreign importers to either sell their businesses to Europeans or to become nationalized within six months.

PROF. DANIEL H. THOMAS of the URI history department has been awarded the "Ordre de Leopold II" by Belgium in recognition of his studies in the diplomatic history of Belgium during the Second World War. The decoration carries the rank of "officer."

Trustees Approve Increment Raise For URI-RI Calendar Year Faculty

The Board of Trustees of State College has approved a 15 per cent increase in normal salary increments of URI and Rhode Island College faculty who are calendar year appointees.

A story in last week's Beacon incorrectly implied that faculty of both institutions will receive a 15 per cent overall raise.

The increment increase amounts to $30 for instructors, $38 for assistant professors, $45 for associate professors and $60 for professors. Normal annual increment for academic year appointees are: instructors $200, assistant professors $250, associate professors $300 and professors $400.

The provision of granting merit increases which would enable a faculty member to exceed the maximum in his rank has been approved for assistant professors. Previously, this principle applied only to associate professors and professors.

IFC Compiles Non-Frat List

The IFC has begun a campaign to compile a list of non-fraternity freshmen who were unable to be pledged during the past rushing period for various reasons but are desirous of going fraternity. It was announced Monday.

In making the announcement, Gary Kullberg, IFC treasurer, said, "Since several fraternities have expressed a desire to colonize on campus, we would like to present a list of prospective candidates for brotherhood in these fraternities to the interested organizations."

Any freshman interested in joining one of these fraternities should contact Alan Levitan, 262 Adams Hall, or sign one of the lists now posted in the men's residence halls.

Backstage

by Lonnie Torman

The scenery from the University Theatre's production of "J.B." were removed from Quinn Auditorium in record time to make way for rehearsal use of the auditorium by the cast of "Annie Get Your Gun," the all-university production which will be presented May 10-12.

Although "Annie" will be presented in Edwards Auditorium, use of the Edwards stage by other campus organizations will prevent the cast and crew of the musical from using it until the middle of April.

"Annie Get Your Gun" will be produced by University Productions, Inc. which consists of the department of speech and dramatic arts, the department of music and the department of physical education for women.

As a musical comedy, "Annie Get Your Gun" added another golden page to the annals of musical America when it opened in New York in 1946.

"Its debut was as startling as it was auspicious," said Louis Untermeyer in a review of the show. "On the evening of May 17, 1946, a little dark-haired girl dressed in scarlet-dyed buck skin, with a fringe on the bottom, came on stage toting a squirrel-rifle almost as tall as she was. There, at the Imperial Theatre, she figuratively opened fire and blasted a blaze Broadway audience out of its high-priced seats. The first nighters thought they knew what they were getting. They had come to listen to Ethel Merman glorifying a group of tailor-made Irving Berlin tunes. They got 10 times more than they bargained for," said Untermeyer.

"Annie" has supplied the nation with a cluster of captivating tunes which have since become standards of music. Notable among them are "Moonshine Lullaby," the satirical "You Can't Get a Man With a Gun," the ribald "Doin' What Comes Naturally," the laughable "I'm an Indian Too," the broadly affirming "I Got the Sun in the Morning," and the remarkable trio of love songs—"They Say It's Wonderful," "I Got Lost in His Arms," and "Who Do You Love I Hope."

Perhaps the most famous song is the climatic "There's No Business Like Show Business," which later became the title of a motion picture which also starred Ethel Merman.

In 1950, when "Annie Get Your Gun" was transformed into a motion picture, it featured Betty Hutton and Howard Keel.

The enviable history of this Irving Berlin musical promises to make the University Productions, Inc. presentation of "Annie" a show worth waiting for.

GSA Speaker Calls 'Social Nudism' Dignity of the Body

Social nudism is based on a belief in the essential dignity of the human body, said Paul Arnold, director of public relations for the American Sunshine Association, at a recent lecture sponsored by the Graduate Students Association.

Mr. Arnold said, contrary to belief, the nudist feels clothing has a specific function at times for protection, comfort, adornment and identification, he said.

"Nudism is not any form of religious worship or cult. It does not conflict with any religious beliefs," said Mr. Arnold.

The speaker said nudism is beneficial because it is a satisfying activity, an aid to mental health and it may alleviate some of the pressures brought on by society.

Mr. Arnold said nudism is psychologically better for the development of the adolescent because "satisfied curiosity leads to more control of drives."

He said modern social nudism began in this country in New York in the late twenties. The American Sunshine Association, formed as a unifying element for local groups, has 120 clubs in its membership.

Mr. Arnold is a graduate of Michigan State University and received his master's degree from Harvard Business School. At the present time, he is a member of the department of business at Michigan State University.

Steel Industry Negotiations Topic For Coffee Hour

Dr. Myers has taught at Harvard University, Boston College and the University of Michigan. He has had practical experience in industrial relations in private industries and worked in the government service for several years. He has served on several government arbitration boards and has written numerous articles in this field.

Dr. Myers' visit is sponsored by the URI department of industrial management.

Freshman Health Group Organized

Promoting health among students at URI is the main purpose of the new Women's Student Health Council organized by freshman women.

The Council held its first Health Week recently. Posters were placed in the dormitories and classrooms to remind students to take care of their health. Representatives of the Council serve as hostesses at special functions in the women's physical education department.

Miss Viola Grilli, an instructor in the women's physical education department and group adviser, said "the council will act as a liaison between students and faculty in relation to health problems."

Then you'd like computer programming, the new career that makes full use of your logical talents. If you have a keen analytical and logical mind—and want to use it fully after college—then computer programming at IBM may be just the career you've always looked forward to.

A computer programmer examines a business, industrial, or scientific problem and translates it into a special mathematical-logical language for the computer. Working at amazing speeds, the computer can produce answers in minutes, even seconds. Some of these answers might actually take days to produce by other methods.

The problems are interesting and varied. IBM programmers have used computers to predict hurricanes, tell days ahead where satellites will be in space, locate the best factory sites for businessmen, and aid highway engineers in laying out roads.

You naturally have a better chance to grow with a growth company.

IBM

No previous knowledge of computers is necessary; an intensive training course will equip you for your work. But you should have an analytical and logical turn of mind, and at least two years of college mathematics.

In computer programming you will find that the salaries are excellent, and that the future can be virtually as unlimited as the future of the computer itself. There are ample opportunities for continued education.

The IBM representative will interview on your campus. He will be glad to give you details about this fascinating new profession. Your placement office will make an appointment. All qualified applicants will be considered for employment without regard to race, creed, color or national origin. Or you may write, outlining briefly your background, to: Manager of Technical Recruitment, IBM Corp., Dept. 902, 590 Madison Avenue, New York 22, N. Y.

IBM will interview Feb. 23.

Dr. Hepburn Leads Scroll Coffee Hour

Dr. James J. Hepburn, newest member of the URI English department, spoke recently on "Literature and Psychology" at a coffee hour in the Union west room. Dr. Hepburn said he had not taken any courses in psychology but he had become familiar with Freudian psychology. He said, "the Freudian outlook is limited in its interpretation of literature."

"Virgil, greatest of the Roman poets, was a good psychologist because he was able to see into the minds of his readers," Dr. Hepburn said.

Scroll, campus literary organization, sponsored the coffee hour. Dr. Hepburn has published articles in the fields of literature and psychology and has edited two college texts. He taught at Cornell University before coming to URI.

Cornell Redesigns Engineering Program

Ithaca (IP)—A new underclass curriculum designed to assist engineering students in making choice in the various fields of engineering will begin full operation at Cornell University starting next fall. It is expected that under the new program there will be fewer students transferring from one to another engineering program.

The new curriculum will be a common one for freshmen and sophomores. The only exception to the two-year common curriculum will be for students who plan to continue in Chemical or Metallurgical Engineering. They will be permitted to depart from the regular sophomore curriculum in half of their academic work to give early attention to the necessary advanced chemistry.

In addition to the total number of courses per semester being reduced to five, substantial increase has been made in the scope of mathematics.

To Attend Meeting Union Director

Boris Bell, director of the URI Memorial Union will participate in the 39th annual Association of College Unions international conference at Purdue Memorial Union in Lafayette, Indiana, April 1-4.

A "refresher retreat" for Catholic students will be held Monday, April 9, from 5:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. at St. Dominic's Retreat House in Peace Dale. Arrangements for the retreat, which is being sponsored by the Newman Club, were made by Paula Heister, club religious chairman.

Included in the retreat will be conferences, a question-box period and Benediction. A home-style dinner will be served. Father Dennis Kane, O.P., is the Retreat Master.

Those wishing to make the retreat may sign up at the Newman Club office in the Memorial Union. Donation is $2.

For those needing transportation, a bus will leave the parking lot of Christ the King Church following the 5 p.m. Mass. Late permissions will be extended to freshmen women for the retreat.

COLLEGE STUDENTS IN THE VACATION RIOTS

What touches off the vicious vacation riots in resort towns from coast to coast? What madness causes the drunkenness, open immorality, violent battles with police? What sudden mob impulse can motivate a crowd of 30,000 educated young men and women into a rampage of destruction? Perhaps it's a new way to "let off steam" . . . a savage kind of self-expression. But why are so many college students—presumably the nation's most "adult" and sophisticated young people—involved? Why do they knowingly risk their futures, even their lives for a few hours of wild abandon? In the new April McCall's, don't miss the unbelievable, yet true, report on the spread of this insane activity . . . the terrible price you may have to pay if you're involved . . . and how you can help stop the insanity.

In viewing last Saturday's welter-weight championship fight, I am wondering if boxing, the "manly art of self-defense," should be re-named "murder, or slaughter on Fifth Avenue," for that was what it was. Actually, this is just a typical example of what has been going on for some time, for over 20 fighters in the last 10 years have been "murdered" in the ring.

Why do I yell murder? Basically, the reason is that boxing disappeared as a sport many years ago, when the fight game was taken over by monsters, and such local fight clubs terminated operations as the St. Nicholas arena, in Long Island, where future champions were born and made.

The masterpiece last Saturday proved an adequate stage for savagery and slaughter. Benny "Kid" Paret, trying to retain his championship over Emile Griffith, was plainly outclassed and may have been sick upon entering the ring, as, last December, he was thoroughly beaten by Gene Fullmer, the recognized NBA middle-weight champion.

In the fight Saturday, to those who didn't witness the massacre, Paret lost the first five rounds decisively and was badly hurt in the fourth, fifth and tenth rounds. Did referee Ruby Goldstein stop the fight—of course not, this was a championship, and supposedly, the crowd was "out for blood." Then, in the twelfth and last round, Paret was hit solidly enough to send his head through the ropes as Griffith proceeded to hit the former champion 20-26 consecutive times, before the fight was stopped at 2:09 of the round.

Why didn't the referee stop the fight before Paret was really hurt? "It's possible that he could rebound and continue fighting." This seems a little ridiculous—anyone who is victimized in such an attack couldn't possibly survive.

As this issue of The Beacon is being printed, Paret stands a 10,000-1 chance of living after being operated on for removal of a blood-clot on the brain.

Is boxing a sport? Is boxing a profession? What is boxing? After viewing the demonstration Saturday, one must sit down and think about these questions and the future of boxing in our society. Athletes are injured in other sports, to be sure, but the possibility of such has been minimized, in most sports, at least.

Since this is the third time that Paret has been knocked out this year, one must reach the conclusion that he may not have been in the best physical condition upon entering the ring, and if this is the case why didn't the commission who gave Paret his physical examination detect his shortcomings?

Boxing has been going downhill for many years, both because of the inability of the referees to handle all situations and themselves in the ring and the lack of general competency of the people handling the physical examinations. Add to these ideas the dark background of many of the current fighters and one can wind up with the general conclusion that boxing should either be abolished from the American scene or very strict controls be placed on the "sport" by a special commission under federal control.

LESSON 4 - Why men watch girls

Men watch girls for various reasons. Personally, we need no better reason than the reason men climb mountains. They are there. We have heard old men say they watch girls because it makes them feel younger and young men because it makes them feel older (see above). While investigating the reasons why men watch girls we picked up a clue from, of all things, a bird watcher. He told us that he formerly had been a flower watcher. Then one day a Speckle-Breasted Jackdaw happened to land in his garden as he was watching a calla lily and he noticed that the bird moved. He switched to birds on the spot. Girl watchers have discovered that girls enjoy this same advantage (movement) over calla lilies. (Speaking of advantages, how about Pall Mall's natural mildness!)

URI's Captain Gary Koenig Plays on All New England Team

The New England All-Stars, with URI's Gary Koenig, lost to the Boston-Worcester All-Stars last Saturday night in Boston, 89-71, in a contest for the benefit of the Basketball Hall of Fame. Last year, behind URI's Barry Multer, who scored 20 points, the New Englanders won. In this year's contest, Jim Hooley and Bill Foley of Boston College led the winners in scoring with 20 and 19 points respectively. Jimmy Hadnot of Providence College led the losers with 23 points while Kirk Leslie of Massachusetts Conference champion Massachusetts had 14. Gary Koenig scored two points.

A last minute decree by the Amateur Athletic Union warned athletes that if they played, they would lose their amateur standing. For this reason, Jack "The Shot" Foley of Holy Cross, URI's Dave Ricereto, who is on the baseball team, Chuck Chevalier of Boston College, Little-America Bob Mahland of Williams, and Tom "Skip" Chappelle of Maine did not compete.

In a game last Sunday night at Newton, Massachusetts, Billy Donovan, Jim Hooley and Chuck Chevalier, all of Boston College, rallied the Boston-Worcester team for an 89-88 victory over the New England All-Stars. Donovan was the high scorer in the game with 24 points, as Hooley and Chevalier added 15 points each. Tom Chappelle of Maine led the losers with 22 points, followed by Kirk Leslie of Massachusetts with 18, Dave Damphousse of Merrimack with 10, and URI's Gary Koenig with 7.

After the game, George "Woody" Grimshaw, head basketball coach at Tufts, mentioned that "Koenig is a tremendous rebounder and floorman. I haven't seen all of the players in New England and I guess I haven't seen much of Gary. But he sure convinced me in this one."

In continuing, Woody stated, "If we had Gary on our team this year, we would have done a lot better. He is just what we needed."

Grimshaw is one of Brown's all-time scoring leaders and, upon finishing his collegiate career, took a turn with the Providence Steamrollers in the NBA.

EDUCATIONAL TV: ITS CAUSE AND CURE

A great deal of nonsense has been written about educational television. Following is my contribution:

It has been said that television allots no desirable viewing hours to educational and intellectual programs. This is simply not so. For instance, you can see "The Kant and Hegel Hour" every day at 4 a.m. This excellent show is followed at 5 a.m. by "Kierkegaard Can Be Fun." For such lazy scamps as lie abed beyond that hour, there is a splendid program on Sunday mornings at 7:15 called "Birds of Minnesota, Except Duluth."

So much for the myth that TV gives no prime time to educational programs. Now let us deflate another canard: that TV is not eager to inject intellectual content in all its programs.

If you have sat, as I have sat, with a television planning board, you would know that the opposite is true. I was privileged recently to witness a meeting of two of TV's topmost program developers—both named Binkie Tattersall.

"Binkie," said Binkie to Binkie, "if there is one thing I am bound and determined, it's that we're going to have intellectual content in next season's programs."

"Right!" replied Binkie. "So let us put on our thinking caps and go to work."

"I forgot my thinking cap in Westport," said Binkie, "but I have a better notion: let us light a Marlboro."

"But of course!" cried Binkie. "Because the best way to think is to settle back and get comfortable, and what is the cigarette that lets you settle back and get comfortable?"

"I said Marlboro," answered Binkie. "Weren't you listening?"

"A full-flavored smoke is Marlboro," declared Binkie.

"Rich tobacco, pure white filter, a choice of pack or box. What is better than a Marlboro?"

"A Marlboro and a match," replied Binkie. "Got one?"

Binkie had, and so they lit their good Marlboros and settled back and got comfortable and proceeded to celebrate.

"First of all," said Binkie, "we are going to avoid all the old clichés. We will have no domestic comedies, no westerns, no private eyes, no deep sea divers, no doctors, and no lawyers."

"Right!" said Binkie. "Something offbeat."

"That's the word—offbeat," said Binkie.

They smoked and celebrated.

"You know," said Binkie, "there has never been a series about the Coast and Geodetic Survey."

"Or about glass blowers," said Binkie.

They fell into a long, torpid silence.

"You know," said Binkie, "there's really nothing wrong with a cliché situation—provided, of course, it's offbeat."

"Right!" said Binkie. "So let's say we do a series about a guy who's a family man with a whole bunch of lovable kids who play merry pranks on him."

"Yeah, and he's also a cowboy," said Binkie.

"And a deep sea diver," said Binkie.

"With a few degrees," said Binkie.

"Plus an M.D.," said Binkie.

"And he runs a detective agency," said Binkie.

"Binkie," said Binkie to Binkie, "we've done it again!"

They shook hands silently, not trusting themselves to speak, and lit Marlboros and settled back to relax, for Marlboro is a cigarette not only for celebration, but for settling back with—in fact, for all occasions and conditions, all times and climes, all seasons and reasons, all men and women.

This column is sponsored—sometimes nervously—by the makers of Marlboro, who invite you to try their fine filter cigarettes, available in king-size pack or flip-top box at tobacco counters in all 50 states.
